Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Monday 13 Sep 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Mostly dry on Monday with sunny spells. Becoming cloudy later.

Today:
Most places staying dry with plenty of sunshine during the morning. It will become cloudy over central and southern Scotland in the afternoon and evening with a little drizzle and mist for Dumfries and Galloway later.

Tonight:
Clouding over from the South in the evening, however Moray and Easter Ross seeing some evening sun. Becoming misty and drizzly for many areas, clearer in the north.

Tuesday:
A cloudy day with some mist and drizzle, especially over the hills, drier and brighter for the Highlands and Moray but a few showers here. Brightening up late in south.

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Some showers possible on Wednesday but brighter spells too. Dry and bright on Thursday but strengthening winds later. Wet and blustery on Friday morning, drier later with showers.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.